

Australasian Dance Collective

INDEMNITY & INJURY DISCLAIMER

Dance of all types carries a risk of personal injury. AUSTRALASIAN DANCE COLLECTIVE prioritises the safety and well-being of everyone involved in our activities and maintains public liability insurance covering personal injury and property damage to third parties. While ADO takes reasonable precautions during all activities, we do not accept responsibility for injuries or losses incurred during these activities. All participants in classes, workshops, and rehearsals are personally responsible for their readiness and safety. The participant, or if the participant is under 18 years of age, their guardian, certifies that:

- the participant is fully responsible for the safety, management and care of their bodies during their participation;
- the participant is not the subject of an ongoing Workers Compensation claim, and is personally deemed fit to participate in dance activities;
- the participant must clearly inform the teacher of any pre-existing injury, illness, or intolerance which may affect the ability to participate in dance/group related activities;
- the participant will follow safety instructions and will immediately inform the teacher of any physical difficulties or injuries that occur during the class as AUSTRALASIAN DANCE COLLECTIVE does not accept liability for personal injury;
- the participant authorises AUSTRALASIAN DANCE COLLECTIVE to seek appropriate medical attention in the event that they are injured and agree to pay all medical and ambulance costs which may be incurred as a result of their actions while participating;
- the participant will report to the teacher and complete an incident report immediately (or, when practical) of an injury or incident occurring;
- the participant agrees to indemnify AUSTRALASIAN DANCE COLLECTIVE and its directors, officers, employees and teachers against all costs, expenses and liabilities resulting from their actions, or negligence during ADC activities or on ADC premises;
- where the participant has exception to any of these warranties, the participant will not participate in the classes.